Welcome to Lake Morena Regional Park

Morena Reservoir lies in the middle of 3,250 acres of chaparral, oak woods, and grassland. In addition to these natural attributes, the park features some of the most modern camping facilities in San Diego County. Picnicking, hiking, fishing...Lake Morena Regional Park has something to offer every outdoor enthusiast.

The lake is the highest (3,000 feet) and most remote of the city's reservoirs. Because of its location southwest of the Laguna Mountains, the park shows characteristics of desert, coastal, and mountain habitats. This chaparral woodland is home to a variety of animals. Bald eagles, bobcats, and many migratory waterfowl can be observed in the remote wilderness.

A Day in the Country

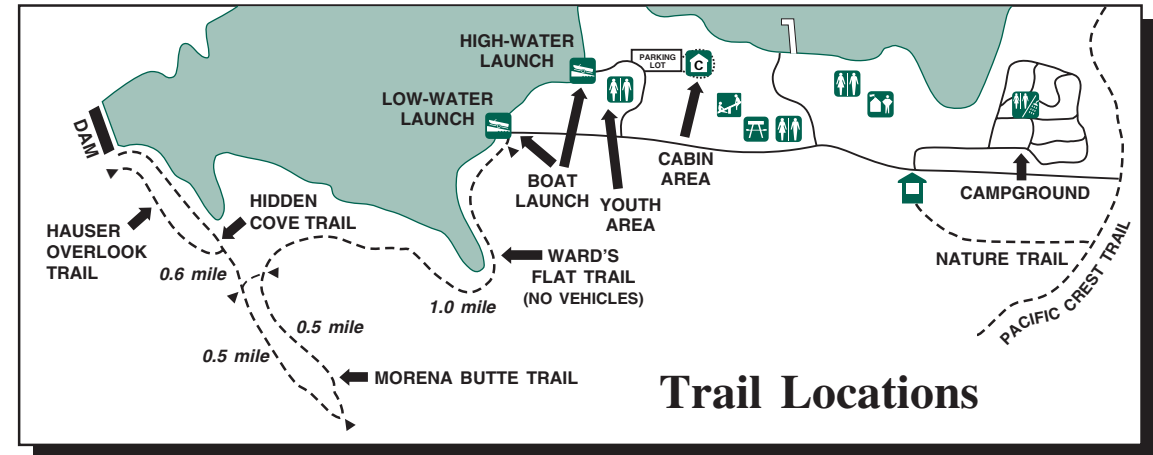

The campground consists of 86 individual sites, 58 of which have water and electrical hookups and are comfortably situated in a grove of majestic oaks. Lake Morena has a youth camping site, primitive camping areas, and wilderness cabins. Even if you are not camping, you can drop in for a picnic lunch and short hike. Trout fishing is excellent in winter, and bass start biting in spring (the current lake record for bass is a 19 lb. 3 oz. large-mouth, and the record trout weighed 12 lb. 12 oz.). Spring and summer are also good for panfish. Bring your own boat or rent one of ours. Hikers will want to explore the Pacific Crest Trail, which passes through the park on its way to Canada. Only minutes away from Lake Morena Regional Park is Campo, where you can discover local history in the Campo Stone Store or take an exciting train ride through the rugged backcountry.
